In the first special interest workshop in our 'all about' series we like to introduce our Floral design workshops together with one of New Zealand's renowned floral stylists, Anna Robertson.

Anna is a Diploma Holder of NZ Professional Florists and one of New Zealand's renowned florists. Her expertise and experience within the industry have seen her as President of NZPF, twice winner of Interflora Pacific Unit Florist of the Year (held every 4 years), Programme Coordinator for 4 years and tutor for 7 years at Bay of Plenty Polytechnic, owning a Floral Studio in Whakatane with her Mum, Sue for 13 years, and more recently designing floral works for royal and high society events in England.

The workshops which will have a maximum of 10 participants will be 'four seasons' and follow the seasonal influences; they may include gathering botanic material from the lodge's estate, visiting commercial growers or specific teaming.

No experience is necessary, however workshops can be adjusted to teambuilding, practising florists or just having a good time
